

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

A newsletter for faculty, staff and students of The University of Findlay

Volume 3, Issue 13

Feb. 10, 2006

FACULTY TO BE HONORED FOR LONGTIME SERVICE

More than 35 faculty members will be honored for their years of service and dedication to the University during the annual Recognition and Appreciation Dinner on Friday, Feb. 10, in the AMU Multipurpose Room.

The following people will be honored for their years of service:

20 Years:

Douglas M. Asbury, director of the Accounting Program

Jack E. Corle, Jr., co-director of art

Marianna L. Hofer, associate professor of English

Dr. Marie A. Loudon-Hanes, dean of the College of Liberal Arts

Heda Samimi, assistant professor of computer science

More than 20 Years:

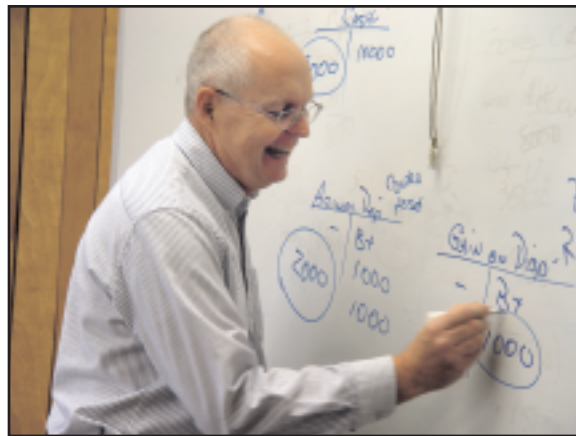

Dr. Micheal F. Anders, director of choral activities, professor of music

Stephen F. Brown, director of the Western Riding Program, instructor of riding

Mary Jo Geise, dean of the College of Sciences, associate professor of computer science

James Greenwood, associate professor of communication

Craig E. Gunnett, assistant professor of computer science

Douglas M. Asbury, director of the Accounting Program and assistant professor of business, will be one of the faculty members honored during the dinner.

Teresa J. LaRocco, assistant professor of English

Dr. Peter Maldonado, associate professor of business

Elaine M. Markon, assistant Nuclear Medicine Institute program director

Dr. Raymond J. McCandless, director of Academic Technology Services, professor of political science

Judith McCrory, co-director of mathematics, assistant professor of mathematics

David C. Wallach, assistant professor of mathematics

25 Years or More:

Anne Albert, co-director of mathematics, assistant professor of mathematics

See SERVICE, page 2

BLACK HISTORY MONTH CELEBRATIONS

UF is celebrating February as Black History Month by offering a series of intercultural events.

• Saturday, Feb. 11, 8-10 p.m. - Gospel Showcase featuring K Drama and the Christ Temple Youth Choir, Winebrenner Convocation Center, Co-sponsored by the Black Student Union (BSU) and the College Democrats.

• Wednesday, Feb. 15, 5-7 p.m. - Soul Food Dinner, Henderson Dining Hall, hosted by Sodexo, Intercultural Student Services (ISS) and BSU.

• Saturday, Feb. 18, 9 p.m. - The Ninth Annual Black Tie Affair Red Carpet Event, AMU MPR, hosted by BSU.

• Sunday, Feb. 19, 8 p.m. - Spring Break Fashion Show, AMU MPR, hosted by Res Life and BSU.

• Tuesday, Feb. 21, 7 p.m. - "Freedom is a Constant Struggle-The Albany Civil Rights Movement" presentation by Dr. Mary Sterner Lawson, author of the book "June Bug's Grocery and the Cornfield Jook: A South Albany Oral History," AMU Endly Room, presented by ISS.

• Wednesday, Feb. 22, 7 p.m. - "Guess Who" movie presentation at the Cave, presented by ISS.

• Thursday, Feb. 23, 7 p.m. - "Save the Last Dance" movie presentation at the Cave, presented by ISS.

• Tuesday, Feb. 28, 11 a.m. - Coffee House series flautist Galen and band, sponsored by the Campus Program Board (CPB), ISS and Student Activities and Commuter Services.

SERVICE, CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Dr. Luke Bartolomeo, dean of the College of Business, professor of chemistry

Clark R. Bardley, instructor of riding

Cynthia A. Morehead, instructor of riding

Dr. Milton E. Peters, professor of psychology

Dr. Richard A. Smith, professor of philosophy, director of the Philosophy Program

Richard W. Corner, associate professor of computer science

Jack Taylor, professor of music, director of bands

30 Years or More:

Nondace N. Campbell, director of the Reading Center

Donald Collins, assistant professor of psychology, Student Athlete Academic Counselor

Dr. Dwight L. Moody, professor of biology

Douglas S. Salvesson, professor of art

35 Years or More:

Dr. Jerry J. Mallett, director of the Mazza Museum, professor of education

Sharon G. Milligan, director of the Physical Education Program, associate

Dr. Marie Loudon-Hanes, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, will be honored for her 20 years of service to UF.

professor of physical education

Dr. Shiv K. Gupta, professor of marketing and economics

Also during the event, the recipients of the David Allen Award for Teaching Excellence, and the Founders' Academic Excellence Award for Faculty will be announced.

Two new honors will be awarded at this year's dinner: the Faculty Chair in College of Liberal Arts and the Faculty Chair in the College of Sciences.

CHINESE BUSINESS CULTURE PRESENTATION TO BE HELD

Dr. Galal Walker, director of the National Chinese Flagship Program at The Ohio State University, will present "Doing Business with China" at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 16, in the AMU.

Walker will use his experiences from the program, which prepares American students to work in China, to discuss cultural aspects of communication.

A reception will immediately follow the event.

Walker is the director of The Ohio State University's National East Asian Languages Resource Center (NEAL-RC). Founded in 1993 as the National Foreign Language Resource Center, the center is designed to increase learners' abilities to master advanced levels of language and cultural competence.

He is also a humanities professor in the Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures (DEALL) at The Ohio State University. DEALL is one of the largest programs of its kind in the continental United States.

SEEM CERTIFIED FOR AGROTERRORISM TRAINING

With the awareness of terrorism rising in the United States, The School of Environmental and Emergency Management (SEEM) has been certified to offer a U.S. Department of Homeland Security approved "agroterrorism" preparedness-training course.

This Foreign Animal Disease Response course includes an overview of agroterrorism and training modules on quarantine procedures, personal protective equipment selection, depopulation and disposal of animals, and facility and equipment cleaning and disinfecting.

Other key parts of the training include a foot and mouth disease outbreak scenario and drill with Emergency Responder field notes. The program will be geared toward representatives from fire service, law enforcement, medical professionals, HazMat specialists, transportation coordinators, the military, and the entire agriculture community.

Harold Huffman, program manager for the SEEM, was certified last year as a master trainer for this DHS Approved Course developed by Kirkwood Community College of Iowa. Huffman is part of a 100-person team in the U.S. that has been charged with training officers at the first response level on these critical agroterrorism issues.

Huffman commented, "People rarely connect agroterrorism with such responders as fire, law enforcement, emergency medical services and emergency management agencies. . . Members of the local response community will be the ones to deal with the problem up front until state and federal agencies can offer assistance. And they may actually stay involved for weeks and/or months until the spread of the disease is thwarted, and the contaminated facilities, equipment and other items are disinfected."

GOOD SPIRIT KEEPS CAMPUS WARM

Josh Bonker, freshman theatre major, woos Brenda Weber, administrative assistant for the vice president of student services, during the UF Idol competition on Feb. 3. More than 250 people came to watch 16 students compete for the chance to be named UF Idol.

A sold-out crowd enjoyed the Toledo Symphony's performance of "Symphony No. 2 in C Minor, Op. 17," "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Kaintuck" on Friday, Jan. 27.

Photography by Anne Risser Lee

Nearly 30 alumni of the men's basketball program returned to campus Jan. 28 to play in the Men's Alumni Basketball Game.

Steve Stechschulte of the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation demonstrated how a polygraph test works during a recent forensic science class taught by Phil Lucas, instructor of criminal justice.

Student, faculty and staff are taking full advantage of the University's Cardio Center, as the winter weather keeps many indoors.

Photo by: Yekaterina Kontar

FYI is published by the Office of Public Information.
Contact Rebecca Shell at x4345 or at shell@findlay.edu to submit information.
To read FYI online, visit www.findlay.edu Keyword: FYI.

'BELLS ARE RINGING' TO OPEN FEB. 22

The theatre and music programs will take audiences back to a time before answering machines with the musical "Bells Are Ringing" Feb. 22-26 at 8 p.m. at the John and Hester Powell-Grimm Theatre.

"Bells Are Ringing," with music by Jule Styne and book and lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolph Green, is being produced by Dr. Micheal F. Anders, UF director of choral activities and professor of music. Anders also is serving as the musical director, and Vicki McClurkin, UF adjunct theatre professor, is serving as stage director for the production.

The musical is set in a time when an operator answered the telephone if someone else couldn't. The production tells the tale of how the lines are blurred between doing a job and eavesdropping.

"Bells Are Ringing" runs Feb. 22-26.

For tickets, contact the Box Office at 419-434-5335.

PT PROGRAM PRESENTS AT NATIONAL CONFERENCE

Thirteen students, faculty and recent graduates of the University's Physical Therapy Program recently gave a number of presentations at the American Physical Therapy Association's annual Combined Sections Meeting in San Diego, Ca., Feb. 1 - 5.

Jennifer Bostelman and Sara Christman, recent graduates of the program, presented a platform sponsored by the Clinical Electrophysiology Section Wound Care Special Interest Group.

Three current graduate students, Robin Altenburger, Josh Baker and Erin Schroeder, presented posters related to their graduate research studies.

Mark Carroll, assistant professor of physical therapy, and Dr. Robert Frampton, director of the Physical Therapy Program, together with a colleague from Bowling Green State University, conducted a presentation for the Section on Education and the Section on Health Policy and Administration.

Six other members of the physical therapy faculty, Dr. Cindy Bouillon, Jenna Encheff, Julie Toney, Sharon Walsh, Dr. Scott Van Zant and Dr. Kerry Volansky, presented posters related to their ongoing research interests.

According to Frampton, several other physical therapy graduate students have had their research posters accepted to the American College of Sports Medicine's annual conference in June 2006 in Denver, Colo.

"Everyone did a great job representing the Physical Therapy Program and the University," reflected Frampton. "Congratulations to all."

SENIOR ART EXHIBITION ON DISPLAY

Original artwork by 15 UF students at will be on display Feb. 13 - March 17 in the Dudley and Mary Marks Lea Gallery. The students' work is part of the 2006 Senior Art Exhibition.

A reception to honor the seniors will be held from 2 - 4 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 12 in the Fine Arts Pavilion.

The exhibition represents a culmination of creativity and work that has been produced by the students during their years of study at UF.

The students are:

- Lynne Albert, senior children's book illustration major;
- Emily Franks, College of Education;
- Charles Ethan Gillespie, senior studio art major;
- Michael Hatfield, senior studio art major;
- Amber Kahler, senior multi-age visual arts education major;
- Sara Kear, senior art major;
- Justin Little, senior graphic communication major;
- Danielle Luikart, multi-age visual arts education major;
- Carl Miller, senior art major;
- Julie Mills, senior multi-age visual arts education major;
- Ryan Pheneger, senior multi-age visual arts education major;
- Drew Romigh, senior multi-age visual arts education major;
- Elaine Shell, senior graphic communication major;
- Sarah Theil, senior studio art major; and
- Rachel Walter, senior studio art and psychology major.

The gallery hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.